Objets d'Art . . . This artwork and others, created by students, is up for bid.

Art Club Auctions Objects; Preview Showing Saturday

Art lovers can add some original art objects to their collections Sunday. The OU Art Club will hold its annual student art auction from 1 to 5 p.m. in the first floor lobby of the Student Center.

A special preview showing will be held Saturday night from 7 to 9 p.m. Interested persons can make written bids at that time. However these bids do not guarantee getting the object.

About 50 art students have made 300 paintings, prints, sculpture, ceramics, drawings and watercolors for the auction. Seventy-five percent of the profits go to the art students for tuition. The other 25 percent goes to the Art Club for a planned trip to New York City.

Carpenter Wants Us—Traywick Replies 'No'

"Don't let Terry Carpenter take our University away from us," said OU President Leland Traywick about one of the two proposals made during the past week that Omaha University become part of a state university system.

The first proposal is a bill being drafted by State Senator Terry Carpenter to make Omaha University a part of the University of Nebraska. The Scottsbluff Senator said that if Omahans don't want that, the board of regents should be elected according to existing senatorial districts.

The second suggestion was made by OU President Emeritus Milo Bail. Dr. Bail favors the establishment of a Greater University of Nebraska, made up of several campuses to eliminate duplication.

He feels that a system of junior colleges could be set up in the economic centers in Nebraska to serve freshmen and sophomore students. The Universities could then concentrate on junior, senior and graduate students. He feels that this is the Unicameral's responsibility since it represents the people.

Dr. Bail's proposal would establish different schools near their area of economic concentration—an engineering college in the area where engineers are concentrated, a business school where business is concentrated, a department of political science in Lincoln, so it would be near the Unicameral.

Dr. Bail said equity of opportunity is the underlying reason for his proposal. He doesn't feel that one student should have to pay $10 a credit hour tuition and another have to pay $20 a credit hour.

Dr. Bail admitted, "It's going to take a lot of money, and faculty to accomplish this."

Dr. Traywick commented, "Dr. Bail is entitled to his opinion, but the administration and the Board firmly believe that the University of Omaha should be independent of the University of Nebraska."

Gateway Seeks Editor

Any full-time student at the University interested in editing the Gateway for the 1966 fall semester is invited to apply to the Board of University Publications.

Editors must carry a minimum of 12 hours and have a minimum cumulative grade point of 2.0.

Application blanks are available from Dr. Paul V. Peterson, Room 116, AA Building, and must be returned no later than noon, May 2.

University Troupe Airs 'Madwoman'

The University theater will present the Madwoman of Chailot tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30. The play, written by Jean Giraudoux, is a comedy dealing with twentieth-century life in Paris. The two-act play will be directed by Dr. Edwin L. Clark.

Admission is free with activity cards. Tickets can be secured at the University box office in the Ad Building anytime before 2:30 this afternoon.

Office Seekers Note

Members of the editorial staff of the Gateway will be in the Student Publications Office, room 116, Applied Arts, Monday, to interview all students who are running for campus offices.

Office hours will be between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. All those who have returned petitions seeking elective campus offices are asked to come for an interview any time during those hours.

As a service to OU students, the Gateway would like to present to them the candidates for Student Council Offices and the University Board of Student Publications.

Student Council Talks With Campus Leaders To Solicit Poll Workers

Fifteen students, representing 12 different campus organizations, met Wednesday with the Student Council.

The purpose of the meeting was to solicit support for the Council-planned "Man the Polls" project. Each representative was asked to secure 20 students willing to be at the 110 polling places on election day to give support to the University's mill levy campaign.

Also at the meeting was President Leland Traywick, who told the group that there is much enthusiasm for OU in the city, and Dean George Rachford, who heads the University's campaign.

Election Rally

During the session one representative, Loren Drum, president of the senior class, suggested that a rally be held on election eve to persuade eligible OU students to vote.

President Traywick said he favors this type of rally, saying further that the school "wants to put this thing on the road." He also said that OU doesn't want to be a state university nor a satellite university. "The University is important in the community."

Student Council president, Doug Slaughter, also urged the campus representatives to elicit students for the third sign-making session May 5 and 6 in the Field House. The signs made at this time will be carried by the students at the various polling places.

Scholarship Motion

In other matters, the Student Council moved that the scholarship motion be put into a formal recommendation to be sent to the University's Scholarship Committee chairman, Dean Donald Pfisterer.

The scholarship recommendation, if accepted, will entitle the OU student selected by the Experiment in International Living Summer program to the sum of $150 to be used in defraying travel cost. The scholarship would be awarded annually.

The Council also discussed Maie Day plans and the sixth straight absence of a Council member, Jackie Riley.

He will go to Putney, Vermont in late June or early July. The experiment's headquarters are located there. He will undergo four or five days of intensive training in Israel's history, culture, language and test problems.

Then he will fly from New York City to Tel Aviv, Israel. There he will live in a "kibbutz" (a collective farm settlement) with his "family" for the summer.

Campus Elections Are Not Meant For 'Popularity Polls'

Last week the Student Council, in an unusual move, dropped a student from the University Board of Student Publications because she had never attended any of the Board's meetings during the entire year.

The student, Kathy Daley, was elected last year by her fellow students, with the obligation to participate in the activities of the Board. She did not, however, carry out this obligation and for this reason was replaced by another student.

This spring the students will again vote for their representatives on the Board as well as the Student Council. And this year, again, there will be those students whose sole purpose in running for an elective office is to gain popularity for themselves and the groups they represent.

We feel that "popularity-seekers" are a detriment to the operation and function of campus organizations. We feel that these students should not hold positions of responsibility and, therefore, should be defeated at the polls.

With this idea in mind, the GATEWAY will actively participate in the upcoming student election. We will attempt to be impartial in our judgment, but we will not encourage those students who believe that campus elections are only a yard-stick by which to measure their popularity.

OU Must Remain Municipal

Terry Carpenter and Dr. Milo Bail have had their chance to comment on what OU's fate should be. (See story p. 1.) Now an OU student should have a chance to be heard.

OU, if it became a part of a state educational system, would lose its autonomy. Even if the people who proposed such a bill to the Unicameral wouldn't intend it that way, it could happen that way, for bills have been known to change while they're going through committees.

It's important to OU students that this University remain a municipal university. If OU became a part of a state educational system, the state governing board could possibly decide to make the Omaha campus an engineering and science school. Then Omaha students interested in other fields would have to move away from home to get the kind of education they would want.

This kind of governing board would negate entirely the concept that education should remain in the hands of the people.

Can Omaha U. students afford this? Not if over half of them have to work while they are attending OU right now. Living away from home and paying $10 a credit hour tuition is still more expensive than living at home and paying $20 a credit hour.

Students who have to work would have a hard time finding jobs in a small college community. They wouldn't have half the opportunity they have right here, right now.

Future Offers Two Choices

family and the country have to offer. He will conclude his summer by a short "city stay" in Europe before returning to Omaha.

Slaughter philosophized that his coming summer would help him look more clearly at himself. As yet, his future plans are "in a dilemma." He has narrowed his choice to two fields: graduate school and business management.

What makes the math major run? "I have three reasons for trying to excel at OU. The first is the inspiration and advice Dr. H. L. Hunzeker has given me as my counselor.

"Second I am trying to pattern myself after President Leland Traywick, who radiates intelligence.

"Third are my parents, to whom I'm trying to bring whatever I can."

Slaughter is currently president of Student Council. He is president of his fraternity Pi Kappa Alpha, CIC student government, Circle K and a member of IEEE, math and engineering club.

Student Council Gets Report From Orphan's Case Aide

The student council has received the first progress report on the Korean orphan they adopted earlier this year.

The report on four-year-old Choi Young Hee was sent by Miss Chong Lim Lee, case aide.

It reads:

At the time she was placed in the foster home, she was very weak physically as she was in the orphanage. She doesn't like where many people are. She was very displeased with the strangers the first time but she began to adjust in the foster family a week later under loving care of the foster mother. At present she becomes a perfect child as one that grows up in the regular family.

She is in good health and is matured for her age. She has had no serious illness since she was placed in the foster home. The room which Young Hee shares is a small sunlit room and she sleeps with her foster sister. Her sleeping habits are good generally.

She enjoys hearing the old tales from her foster sister before she goes to bed and understands what the story says very well. She never wakes up during the night and doesn't make any troubles while she sleeps. She usually gets up at 6 o'clock in the morning and goes to bed at 9 at night. One nap in the day time.

She eats all sorts of food. She prefers bread and juices.

Young Hee usually plays with the girls of her age and becomes a leader among them. For example, when she plays the house-keeping-play, she becomes a mother or a teacher. She likes to mimic people's motion and is so friendly with the children that they like her very much. She rarely quarrels with the children and usually wins even though she fights against a child.

When she is given a good scolding, she is upset but forgets it soon. She is so matured that she becomes gentle before the guests of the foster home. She enjoys dancing to the melody from the radio and also she has good talent in singing. She is smart enough to learn anything in the book very easily. She enjoys taking a bath and is able to wash her face and hands by herself but her foster sister helps her to comb her long hair.

Guaranteed Bank Loan Will Be Offered In Fall

The Guaranteed Bank Loan program will be available this fall to OU students along with the National Defense Loan Program already in force.

Under both the new Guaranteed Bank Loan and the National Defense Loan programs, students can get up to $500 a semester and won't have to start paying on the loan until nine months after graduation. Both loans allow students up to ten years to repay and both charge three percent interest.

The two loan programs are different in that the National Defense Loan was conducted between the student and the University. Here at OU, only full time juniors or above, with at least a 2.0 grade point average are eligible for it.

Also under the National Defense Loan program, education majors could have 10 percent of the loan forgiven each year they are teaching up to five years.

The Guaranteed Bank Loan is conducted entirely between the bank and the student. The role the University plays in this program is in recommending the students and processing the application.

The new loan is available to all students. Students don't have to put up any security nor do they have to have co-signers. The only proof of need a student has to show is that their father's salary is not over $15,000 a year. The bank, rather than the University, authorizes this loan. There is no loan forgiveness under this program.

Don Pflasterer, dean of Student Personnel raised the question of money division at a recent meeting in Lincoln. He said a Nebraska board, yet to be appointed, will divide the money among all the Nebraska colleges and universities that apply.

The banks are handling the new program because they will actually be receiving 6 percent interest—3 percent from the students and 3 percent from the program.

Pflasterer said that the Guaranteed Bank Loan is anticipated to eventually phase out the National Defense Loan, but at the present there are no plans in that direction.

Library Study Offered

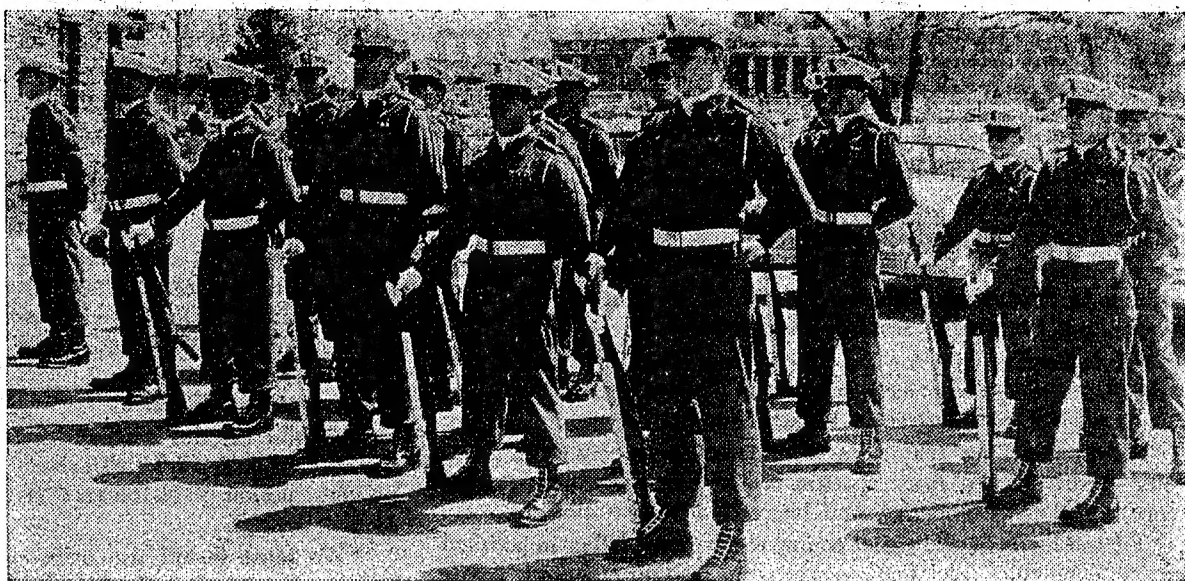

Library science scholarships are now available for college seniors or Nebraska school teachers.

The Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers is offering the scholarships to those enrolled in the following colleges: teachers colleges of the University of Omaha, the University of Nebraska, Chadron State College, Kearney State College, Peru State College, and Wayne State College.

The eligibility qualifications are Nebraska residence, courses in library science and previous experience in library work. Students must also plan to enroll in library science courses during the 1966 summer session in one of the colleges listed above.

Application forms may be obtained in Dean Gorman's office. The form must be sent to the Scholarship Committee, Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers by May 20, 1966.

Scholarship recipients will be notified and by June 17.

Disappointed SABRES Place Third But Boulder Atmosphere Saves All

By Dave Decker

"Up at dawn ready to march and drill . . ." echoed sharply throughout the Boulder, Colo., mountain region as the SABRE Drill Team readied themselves for the drill competition ahead.

The AFROTC team competed Saturday in the seventh annual Boulder Invitational Drill Meet, vying against some of the best teams in the area.

Although they failed to win first place, the SABRES managed to capture third place, close behind the second-place entry, Colorado University's AFROTC Team. The winner of the meet was Colorado's Navy Team.

In last year's event, the same teams won.

Commander of OU's team, Bill Michalenko said of the meet, "You can practice for years, but experience is the determining factor in a drill meet."

His team is composed of more than half freshmen who have never competed against other teams.

He went on to say, "We have performed publicly several times this year but never in direct competition. With this meet over, the team should make a good showing in the upcoming Lincoln, Nebr. drill meet in May."

Even though there was an aura of disappointment for the team, they managed to have a good time in the predominantly college town of Boulder.

Bob Campbell, member of the SABRES, commented that the experience in Boulder was unforgettable.

The return trip on the bus was filled with record breaking performances.

The top demonstration was executed by an Honorary SABRE, Group Executive Officer Don Faur. Faur stood constantly in the aisle playing cards for 12 straight hours. This breaks the previous record of 9 hours.

Gary Kaspar was the recipient of the Song Award. Kaspar was rewarded for making up more versus to "Hum Buda Hum" than anyone else.

French Lecturer To Speak At OU

Gerard de la Villesbrunne, a counselor at the French Embassy in Washington, D.C., will speak in the Conference Center Auditorium today at 1:30. Villesbrunne's talk will concern current French foreign policy.

Villesbrunne will be the guest of the International Relations Club for a discussion meeting at 3 p.m. in Room 309 of the Student Center. Everyone interested in foreign policy and Franco-American relations is invited.

Standing Room Only Crowd Result of Opera Workshop

The University of Omaha Opera Workshop's first presentation last Friday netted a "standing room only" audience.

Over 300 persons attended the performance in the Conference Center Auditorium, which consisted of presentations from 10 famous operas.

Dr. Robert Ruetz, instructor, said, "the response was not surprising, but it was most encouraging. It speaks well for what we will do in the future. The audience responded most exuberantly."

Next year, workshop students will treat audiences to a full-length opera in English. Dr. Ruetz is considering 10 operas.

Among the opera possibilities are Handel's "Acis and Galatea," Pergolesi's "La Serva Padrona," and "Impresario" by Mozart.

The opera will be in costume and with orchestration, Dr. Ruetz said.

He expects an increase in the number of students taking the course next semester and noted that the curriculum will include, in addition to the full-length opera, a program similar to Friday's. "This program would be staged without costumes in foreign languages," he remarked.

Dr. Ruetz added, "I would like to see more of the student body at these productions. I think Friday's program showed that opera isn't the stilted type program of the cliched quality that movies portray," he said.

AA To Lose Rug Soon

New carpeting for the AA Building won't come until this summer.

The east entrance of the AA Building will be cleaned and stripped of the old carpet in the near future by Brandeis.

Robert Krenzer, head of the physical plant department, said "There is too much traffic to work on it now, I'll try to have it removed over Maie Day."

The shipment of new beige Zenith carpet has been delayed in Chicago, but Krenzer hopes it will come by early summer.

Government Career Aim Of Urban Studies Degree

Interested in a career in local government?

Omaha University's Urban Studies Department now offers a degree for Liberal Arts undergraduates.

By majoring in the Urban Studies program, a student can find training in fields such as: city planning and management, social welfare, and community services administration.

Urban Studies Director Dr. Harry Reynolds, Jr., announced recently that students who have completed 58 hours of undergraduate work may plan for a degree in Urban Studies.

The program for majors in that department consists of 36 semester credits drawn from specific courses in geography, political science, sociology, economics, and business administration.

Fifteen hours in additional course work would follow in political science, economics, sociology, or geography. The remaining hours of free electives would be selected in consultation with the Urban Studies advisor.

Anyone planning a career in either government or with a private or voluntary organization concerned with urban problems should contact Dr. Reynolds for the details concerning opportunities available under the new degree offered.

Scholarships Available For OU Upperclassmen

Juniors and seniors interested in applying for one of the following scholarships can pick up application blanks in the Alumni Office:

The Glenn L. Martin Scholarship, $100 per semester provided by the Alumni Association, will be awarded to a student with a 2.5 accumulative grade point average. Applicants must be candidates for a B.A. degree in one of the natural or social sciences.

Upperclassmen with a 3.0 accumulative average can apply for the Wilfred Payne Scholarship. Recipients of the $150 award must be a candidate for a bachelor's degree in one of the humanities.

The Peter Kiewit Engineering Scholarship will go to a civil or industrial engineering major who intends to obtain his bachelor's degree at O.U. A 2.5 grade point is needed to apply for the grant, worth $250 per semester.

Students in the upper ten per cent of the junior class are eligible for the Daniel E. Jenkins Memorial Scholarship. The award is worth $150 a semester.

Single students who have attended O.U. for at least two semesters can apply for the Sallquist Scholarship, which provides $200 per semester for tuition and books. Applicants must have a 2.75 grade average.

Applications must be returned May 9.

Art Hut Gets Ceramic Kiln

Another flaming ceramics kiln will soon be in operation in a little hut behind the Administration Building.

By purchasing the materials locally and building the kiln themselves, Art Department instructor W. C. Wold and three of his advanced ceramics students have saved OU $1,300.

This kiln on the market sells for over $2,000. Wold also drew up construction plans for an even greater savings.

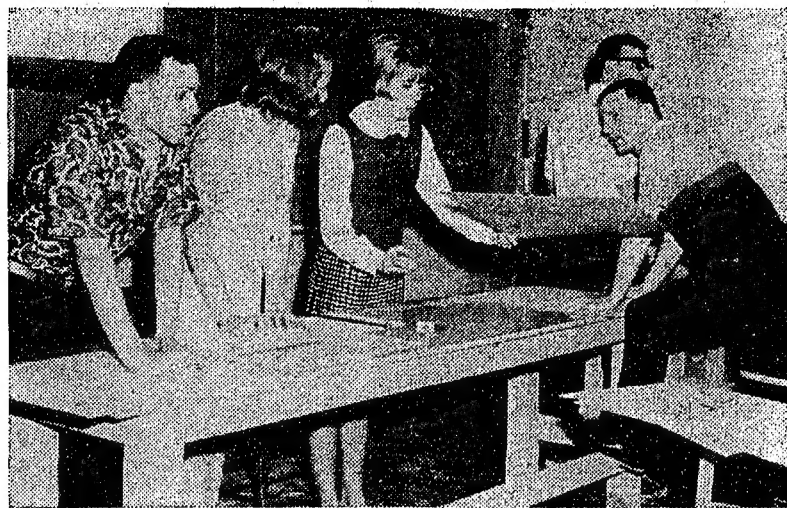

"We must install the burners but should have the kiln in operation in a couple of weeks to finish out the semester," he said.

Wold said he considers work done by his faithful few as a "learning process . . . I feel they benefit greatly by doing this . . . it gave them an opportunity to see a person could save money by constructing a kiln themselves."

The new kiln supplements a smaller, iron-sided model that doesn't allow enough space for ceramics fired by students.

With the operation of this kiln, Wold says "ceramic students will acquire an understanding of high-fire pottery as well as low-fire." And, "Stoneware requires higher temperatures which brings about more durable ware."

Dr. Robert P. Borgman, Assistant Professor of Biology, has received a summer fellowship from the University of Massachusetts and $620 stipend from the National Science Foundation.

Highwaymen, Great Talent?

By Robyn Carmichael

Tambourines, guitars and laughter rang out in Omaha University's Field House Friday, as the Highwaymen played to nearly 1300 enthusiastic collegians.

The second visiting folk group on campus this year, the Highwaymen, are four amiable and ambitious young men with a modicum of instrumental and vocal talent.

But, there are many performers in the field with these traits, and a group striving to create lasting impressions on the tail-end of the commercial folk spectrum must have more than a little originality as well.

The Highwaymen's choice of songs ranged the typical gamut, from traditional to contemporary ballads; everything from the old "Cripple Creek" to "Sounds of Silence." The arrangements sometimes reminded fans of warmed-over Peter, Paul & Mary or The Limelites.

They traded in too much on the current "homo humor," and lacking the caustic finesse of the Mitchell Trio, (who appeared here last semester) it became, at times, a little gross.

What carried the Highwaymen across to their audience were their constant sparks of unadulterated fun.

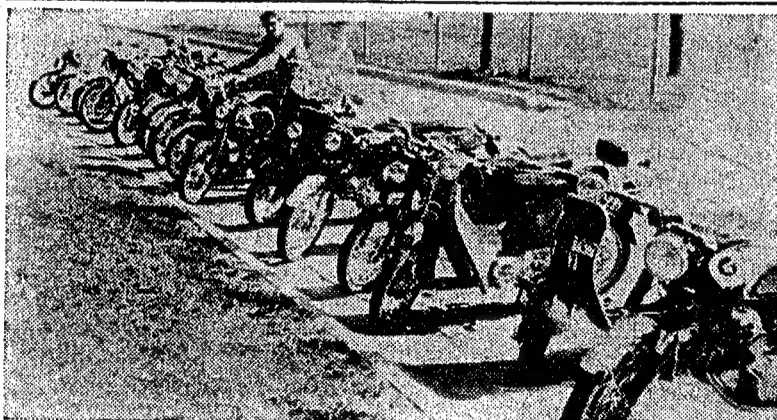

It was apparent from their relaxed appearance and dynamic singing that they thoroughly enjoyed every song in their repertoire, and the attitude saturated their listeners.

Medal of Honor Winner To Register

Capt. Roger H. C. Donlon, first to receive the Medal of Honor for duty in Viet Nam, will begin work at OU starting June 7.

The formal event is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Grinding Along With The Greeks

Zeta Tau Alpha's annual dinner dance is Saturday at the Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel from 8 p.m. to midnight. Members of the sorority will announce their Zeta Honey and will honor the outstanding senior and junior and graduating seniors.

The Karl Jay Orchestra will play for the formal dance.

Chi Omega has pledged Joan Fulton in open bidding.

Five awards were made Saturday at the Alpha Xi dinner dance. Recipients were Inez Kucera, sweetest pledge; Sherry Anderson, meanest pledge; Marg Daley, meanest active, and Chynne Koser, sweetest active. Pledges named Jill Anderson the outstanding active.

Sam Hayes has been appointed treasurer of Theta Chi.

Chi Omega 1965-66 pledge class presented the active chapter with their pledge project at State Day celebrations last weekend.

The project presented was a hand-looped rug. Under the chairmanship of Rene Steimle, the pledges put in more than 100 hours making it. It is red, bordered in gold with greek letters on each end.

The rug cost the class $30 to make and was presented by Toni Matson.

The Chi Omega Mothers Club will honor its OU chapter Sunday at a mother-daughter banquet at the Holiday Inn.

Arbor Fever Strikes TKE's

Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity kicked off its first annual Public Service Week Saturday by serving as hosts for OU's Career Day.

Other projects on the TKE agenda for service include the planting of trees in parks and along Cuming Street and the Radial Highway and the repainting of the Creche Home basement.

They will also do necessary repair in the yard of an elderly couple confined to wheel chairs.

The TKE's will plant about 500 trees in all, many in Elmwood and Gallagher parks. The City Council will also participate in the arborian event, which is scheduled for April 30.

TKE President Jim Miles explained that the purpose of the project is to "show the public that fraternities are made of men who are interested in seeing the community grow."

Miles commented that the idea originated in the TKE national office at Indianapolis. He said that some 230 chapter members are participating in such projects throughout the US and Canada.

Creighton U. Defeated 11-2 By Omaha U. Baseballers

Creighton baseballers will be looking to avenge an 11 to 2 setback at the hands of the Indians tomorrow night at Rosenblatt Stadium. The game is scheduled for 7:30. OU activity cards will be good for admission.

Next week the Omaha team will host the CIC tournament in Rosenblatt. The games are slated for May 4, 5, 6, 7.

OU counted on 11 hits and the brilliant pitching of lefty Larry Wood for the 11 to 2 victory over Creighton Tuesday. Wood gave up only three hits in eight innings and struck out seven. Wood, 2-1 for the season, was charged with both of Creighton's runs as he tired in the eighth.

Irv Rehder was ineffective in relief of Wood on the breezy evening and Ken McEwen finished.

Omaha's big inning came in the ninth with a bunch of hits off Jay reliever Bob Rezek. The Indians scored six in the ninth, three in the second inning and one in the fourth and fifth. The win gives OU a record of 9-2.

Wayne State handed the Indians their second loss of the season Saturday, 7 to 5, at Wayne. Wayne bunched their runs in the third and fourth innings off OU pitchers Jim Butler and Al Zimmerman.

A potentially strong rally in the seventh fell short as OU could tally only two runs.

The loss was especially hard to take as Omaha had run away with the first game, 16 to 2. It took only five innings for the win as the ten-run rule was enforced.

Thirteen hits by OU told the story as six men crossed the plate in the third and ten more in the fourth. Ken McEwen gained his fourth win against no defeats.

Three games that were rained out earlier in the season have been rescheduled.

Hastings College will visit the OU diamond on May 9 for a two game set beginning at 2:00.

Drake, originally set as a doubleheader, will play one nine inning game on May 10.

The games were added so that the team can prepare for the important Nebraska Wesleyan Tournament May 12-13-14.

University of Omaha Tennis Team will play Doane College at 1 p.m. Monday at Dewey Park.

OU Netters Plan To Serve 2 Wins

Omaha University's netters hope to serve up a pair of wins this week following a 6-1 drubbing by Creighton on April 21.

Coach Jim Borsheim lists no changes in his line-up against Wesleyan today. Dick Hawkes, called the top player by Borsheim, heads the squad. Stuart Sloan, John Brunk and Jerry Streitweiser complete the starters.

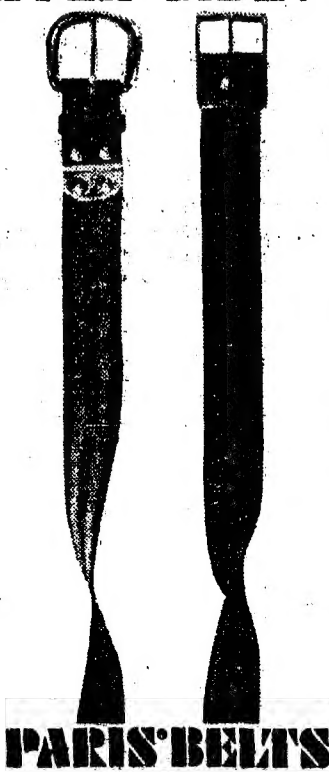

It looks as if reserves will not see any action until further along in the season.

OU's Pro-type Offense Clicks In Spring Drills

By Linda Priesman

Head football coach Al Caniglia has nothing but praise for spring grid practice thus far.

"We've progressed farther than we did last year/at this time," he said. Last year's switch to a pro-type offense slowed the team down. "And with 28 returning lettermen, it's easier for the fellows to adapt. We're just breaking in the new players instead of all of them," the pigskin chief said.

Caniglia singled out Marlin Briscoe, Rick Davis, Carl Goodman, Dennis Ondilla, Dave Rak, Ron Sayers and Lloyd Williams as having made significant contributions to the success of spring ball.

"We're experimenting into moving Davis into the running back slot and we've put Sayers and Williams at flanker back," Caniglia added.

Goodman Excelling

Goodman is doing well as an offensive guard after being switched from defensive end. He has the speed and size to be a real help in passing offensively.

Rak appears to be quite versatile at guard, offensive tackle and defensive line backer. Caniglia is counting on him to give added depth.

Pleased with the progress the offensive line has made, the pigskin mentor feels he can now spend more time on defense.

Battle Of The Bulge

Tight end and defensive end Jim Norris has suffered the only injury. He's sidelined for the rest of spring drills with a broken rib but should be ready for full play next fall.

On a more whimsical note, one player is fighting the battle of the bulge. He's Mike Lair, a transfer from Colorado State at Fort Collins. Before he can be an asset to the team as a defensive tackle he should shed 20 of his 300 pounds, Caniglia noted.

The annual Red-White scrimmage has been moved up a day to May 13 in order to make it a part of Ma-ie Day festivities. Kickoff time is 10 a.m. in the OU gridiron.

We invite you

Funny you should ask...

Oh, I'm getting used to questions, now, but if you're going to get the same boat—I'd better warn you. Remember you called the other day? I told you how the U.S. National will arrange a low-interest personal loan to finance your boat—how easy and fast it is, and how it's the really sensible way to get the job done? Well, when I picked out the boat I wanted, the salesman sort of sheepishly says that the earring is a little "extra" that goes along with the boat. It strikes me as kind of distinctive—you know—so I decided to wear it. I get my ear pierced, put it on—then I go back to the bank. Like

I say, the people at the U.S. are as helpful as you could want, but when I came up to the fella handling my transaction, I could've sworn the hair on his neck bristled. I thought he might call off the whole thing—cancel the loan and the whole bit. All because of a lousy earring! He didn't though. He was as pleasant as ever—just nervous. I tell you all this because I hope you'll smile at that salesman, take the earring, put it in your pocket—and forget it. I mean, I got my ear pierced—and an empty pierced ear gets as much attention as the earring. Like ... U.S. NATIONAL BANKS
